

SUBMISSION GUIDELINES:

Arab Media & Society welcomes contributions from around the world on the selected themes and topics pertaining to the dynamic media landscape across the Arab world. Research papers to be considered for peer-reviewed publication should be submitted electronically via the submission form, or via e-mail, to the Managing Editor or the Editor at (editor@arabmediasociety.com). Research papers for peer-review consideration should be between 4000-10000 words, including abstract, bibliography, notes, title and subheadings. All submissions for peer-review consideration will be double-blind refereed. Both qualitative and quantitative approaches are welcome. Arab Media & Society continuously challenges the boundaries of communication research, guiding its readers to new questions, new evidence, and new conclusions. We accept submissions focusing on particular themes set forth by the issue's Call for Papers. Arab Media & Society is indexed by Scopus-Elsevier.

Articles should be original and not under consideration by any other publication. They should be written in a clear concise style. Full articles and all correspondence with respect to any aspect of editorial policy should always be addressed to the Editor via e-mail. Please send all inquiries to editor@arabmediasociety.com

- We are only able to accept articles submitted electronically. All articles should be submitted as a Word file. Please ensure that your submission is anonymized and append a word count - inclusive of abstract, references, appendices and all notes. We do not accept submission over 10 000 words. Should you submit an article above the word count, you will be requested to revise and resubmit. . Articles which are currently under consideration with other journals will not be considered.
- The review process is often lengthy, and is likely to take at least two months. Please be patient and do not inquire about the progress of your article until after that time has elapsed. If revisions are requested, you should send the revised version to editor@arabmediasociety.com. Once an article is accepted for publication, you will be asked to supply two electronic files (one Word and one PDF) to the editors. You will also be asked to complete a copyright form. Please note the editors' decision is final. While we often provide explanation for rejection, we are under no obligation to do so. We welcome submissions from authors with previously rejected work, however previously rejected submissions will not be considered.
- All submissions should be in 12 pt font, preferably in Times New Roman and double-spaced, with justified margins. Footnotes should be numbered consecutively, and should be set as footnotes rather than endnotes; they should be in 10 pt, Times New Roman, and justified. Bibliography should be listed separately at the end of the article rather than in footnotes.
- Transliterated Arabic should follow the US Library of Congress style guide, which can be found here.
- Quotations should be put in double inverted commas. A quotation within a quoted passage should have single inverted commas. Punctuation always precedes closing quotation marks in the case of a quotation or a full sentence.

- When using numerals, write numbers 1-10 in words except in references and footnotes.
- The abbreviations e.g. and i.e. may be used in footnotes but should be expanded in the text to 'for example' and 'that is'. Initial e.g. in a footnote should be lowercase.

Authors whose work does not conform to these guidelines will be requested to modify their manuscripts accordingly.

Copyright and permissions: Submissions must be original work and should not have been published in full, abridged, or other form elsewhere. It is a condition of publication in the Journal that authors grant exclusive licence to Arab Media & Society. Any requests from third parties to reproduce articles should be sent to editor@arabmediasociety.com. This will allow the article to be as widely disseminated as possible and will protect the rights of the author. In granting an exclusive licence, authors may use their own material in other publications provided that Arab Media & Society is acknowledged as the original publisher.

Authors are responsible for obtaining permission from the relevant authorities for the reproduction of any illustration or extract, for both print and online formats. Authors are responsible for any reproduction costs or permission fees incurred. Authors must ensure that all permission inquiries and copyright forms are completed before submitting to the Journal. For a copyright prose work, permission should be obtained for the use of extracts longer than 400 words.

Refereeing: Peer-reviewed articles are always double-blind refereed. Generally, articles are sent to at least two scholars with relevant expertise for comments. Anonymity is accorded to both authors and referees.

Opinion: The views expressed in Arab Media & Society are those of the respective authors, and do not necessarily reflect those of the publication, editorial team, Editorial and Advisory Board, or the American University in Cairo.

Abstract and Author Information: An abstract of no more than 150 words should be submitted with the original paper. If the paper is written in Arabic, an Arabic abstract should be submitted in addition to an English translation of the abstract. It is the author's responsibility to check the accuracy of the abstract translation before submission. The abstract should provide a basic introduction to the subject matter; a brief account of the background of the work; a statement of the main conclusions; and 2 sentences that place the main findings in a general context. Authors should provide at least three carefully selected keywords listed below the abstract that identify the content of the submission. Authors must include their full name as it should appear on the publication, along with a short biography of no more than 40 words, stating their profession, affiliation, and area of research expertise.

Images and Captions: All illustrations, photographs, diagrams, maps, etc. should follow the same numerical sequence and be shown as Figure 1, Figure 2, etc. Appropriate sources must be credited. Copyright clearance should be indicated by the contributor and is always the responsibility of the contributor. When submitted on a separate sheet or file, an indication must be given as to where they should be placed in the text. Reproduction will be in greyscale (or black-and-white). All images must be supplied electronically and need to have a resolution of at least 12 dpm (dots per millimetre)- or 300dpi (dots per inch). Tables should be supplied either in the Word document of the main text or as separate Word documents. Tables with text within images will need to have a high final resolution of 48 dpm. Diagrams can be supplied as JPEG, PNG or Acrobat PDF documents. If a mistake is identified in a diagram, authors will be required to amend and re-supply.

Translation: With an objective to make Arab media information globally available, AMS has launched a new initiative to translate selected Arabic articles into English. This is decided by the Editorial board, depending on the need for the research in English to inform an English-speaking audience. As per the interest of the academic community from non-Arabic speaking territories, we have introduced this new feature to facilitate authors to reach a global audience in English, the universal language. The translation service grants a global presence to authors and their research. If an article is selected for translation, the author will be informed and their consent requested prior to the translation process. Once translation takes place, the papers are reviewed once more by our Editorial board and Editors to ensure accuracy of information and academic terminology/language.

Referencing Guide:

Arab Media & Society has adopted the Chicago Manual of Style for academic paper referencing. Your bibliography should be in alphabetical order, and authors' names should be cited as they appear in the texts. Don't replace first names with initials unless the names appear this way on the title page of the source. If no author is listed, organize the entry alphabetically by title. Below are instructions for using the Chicago Manual of Style to cite different sources. It is a good idea to read through these instructions before beginning to write your paper. For additional information or for instructions on proper citing of sources, please visit http://www.chicagomanualofstyle.org/tools_citationguide.html, or see one of these books, or a more recent edition:

- University of Chicago Press. 2003 The Chicago Manual of Style. 15th ed. Chicago: Univ. of Chicago Press.
- Hacker, Diana. 2009. A Pocket Style Manual. 5th ed. Boston: Bedford/St. Martin's.

Citations. In-text citations should be in Chicago Style in the following manner: (Smith 2013), (Johnson & Smith 2013) and up to five authors are listed in the first citation in-text. Subsequent citations for works with three authors or more will use the short form such as (Clark et al. 2013). Authors who need to cite their own previous work should cite them in the same way as other authors. There is no need to specify if the work is written by the author. Excessive self-citations are strongly discouraged. The only exceptions are in press or forthcoming articles. In those cases, the in-text reference should be (Authors, in press/forthcoming). In addition, individual authors should not be cited excessively (more than five times).

i. Book:

Surname, First name. Title. Location: Publisher, date.

Smith, Zadie. Swing Time. New York: Penguin Press, 2016.

ii. Chapter or other part of an edited book:

Surname, First name. "Title of Chapter." In Title of Book, edited by Full name of the editor, page number. Location: Publisher, date.

Thoreau, Henry David. "Walking." In The Making of the American Essay, edited by John D'Agata, 167–95. Minneapolis: Graywolf Press, 2016.

In some cases, you may want to cite the collection as a whole instead.

D'Agata, John, ed. The Making of the American Essay. Minneapolis: Graywolf Press, 2016.

iii. Translated book

Surname, First name. Title. Translated by Name. Location: Publisher, date.

Lahiri, Jhumpa. In Other Words. Translated by Ann Goldstein. New York: Alfred A. Knopf, 2016.

iv. E-book

For books consulted online, include a URL or the name of the database. For other types of e-books, name the format. If no fixed page numbers are available, cite a section title or a chapter or other number in the notes, if any (or simply omit).

Surname, First name. Title. Location: Publisher, date. E-book source.

Austen, Jane. Pride and Prejudice. New York: Penguin Classics, 2007. Kindle.

Kurland, Philip B., and Ralph Lerner, eds. The Founders' Constitution. Chicago: University of Chicago Press, 1987. <http://press-pubs.uchicago.edu/founders/>.

v. Journal article

Include the page range for the whole article. For articles consulted online, include a URL or the name of the database. Many journal articles list a DOI (Digital Object Identifier). A DOI forms a permanent URL that begins <https://doi.org/>. This URL is preferable to the URL that appears in your browser's address bar. If there are four or more authors, list up to ten in the bibliography. For more than ten authors, list the first seven in the bibliography, followed by et al.

Surname, First name. "Title of article." Journal title Volume, issue number (date): page.
Location.

Keng, Shao-Hsun, Chun-Hung Lin, and Peter F. Orazem. "Expanding College Access in Taiwan, 1978–2014: Effects on Graduate Quality and Income Inequality." Journal of Human Capital 11, no. 1 (Spring 2017): 1–34. <https://doi.org/10.1086/690235>.

LaSalle, Peter. "Conundrum: A Story about Reading." New England Review 38, no. 1 (2017): 95–109. Project MUSE.

vi. News or magazine article

Articles from newspapers or news sites, magazines, blogs, and the like are cited similarly. Page numbers are omitted from a bibliography entry. If you consulted the article online, include a URL. Readers' comments are cited in the text but omitted from a bibliography.

Last name, First name. Title. Place of Publication: Publisher, Date.

Mead, Rebecca. "The Prophet of Dystopia." New Yorker, April 17, 2017.

Pai, Tanya. "The Squishy, Sugary History of Peeps." Vox, April 11, 2017.
<http://www.vox.com/culture/2017/4/11/15209084/peeps-easter>.

vii. Book review

Surname, First name. "Review title." Review of Title, by Author full name. Online publisher: full date.

Kakutani, Michiko. "Friendship Takes a Path That Diverges." Review of Swing Time, by Zadie Smith. New York Times, November 7, 2016.

viii. Interview

Last name, First name. "Title." Interview by Full name. Place of Publication, Date. Audio, time.

Stamper, Kory. "From 'F-Bomb' to 'Photobomb,' How the Dictionary Keeps Up with English." Interview by Terry Gross. Fresh Air, NPR, April 19, 2017. Audio, 35:25.
<http://www.npr.org/2017/04/19/524618639/from-f-bomb-to-photobomb-how-the-dictionary-keeps-up-with-english>.

ix. Thesis or dissertation

Last name, First name. "Title." PhD diss., University, Date.

Rutz, Cynthia Lillian. "King Lear and Its Folktale Analogues." PhD diss., University of Chicago, 2013.

x. Website content

For a source that does not list a date of publication or revision, include an access date

Website name. "Title of content." Last modified/accessed date. URL

Google. "Privacy Policy." Privacy & Terms. Last modified April 17, 2017.
<https://www.google.com/policies/privacy/>.

Yale University. "About Yale: Yale Facts." Accessed May 1, 2017. <https://www.yale.edu/about-yale/yale-facts>.

Checks prior to submission: Contributors should check that the following information is supplied to the editor for each and every research paper before submission: Research paper title, authors name, institutional affiliation, authors full institutional addresses and emails, author biography (50 words), paper abstract (150 words), and keywords.